Return to Bobbye G. Fry at fry@uiwtx.edu.

Date of Original Survey: May 20, 2008

Original Author: Melinda Carroll, North Central Texas College

Original Question: What type of scheduling software do you use while creating your course schedule for a given semester? In addition to this, does this system allow for lecture/lab scheduling in different rooms, but for the same section?

Below is a summary of responses that I received in reference to Scheduling Software that is utilized by other institutions. These responses will benefit our institutions as well as others especially in system upgrades and the budgetary process. Please let me know if I can provide other assistance to the TACRAO committees in the future.

Respondent	Institution	Responses (adjust/add columns /rows as needed)
Jonathan Davis	West Texas A&M University	Uses the series 25 room Scheduling software from CollegeNet
J. Davis	WTAMU	The software does allow for separate room scheduling for lectures and labs.
J. Davis	WTAMU	CollegeNet is a fairly blank program and requires quite a bit of data entry.
Patrick Miller	Texas Christian University	TCU uses AdAstra which allows lectures and labs (multiple labs if necessary) for the same section but in different rooms.
